The flow rate increases 100-fold (one hundred-fold) Would be a more idiomatic way of saying this, however, the questioner asks specifically about the original phrasing. The ...

The title of this question says it all. Are there nouns for longer periods than a millennium ? I mean words designating a specific number of years. Era, age and epoch don't ...

The statistical-sounding expression is no problem, but if you want to be formal in register, as your headline indicates, you should probably spell it out as "one hundred ...

relating to 100 years : marking or beginning a century, with the example "the centurial years 1600 and 1700",. But there is a word that is widely used to indicate the range of ...

All of your variants are grammatically correct, and will be easily understood by native English speakers. The less than X is idiomatically identical to under X when referring to ...

2 Use 100% when you are stating mathematical thought like statistics. Use "one hundred percent" when you are stating non-mathematical thought like a story.

If soap A kills 100% and soap B kills 99.99% of bacteria, the remaining amount of bacteria after applying A (0%) is infinitely smaller than the remaining amount of bacteria after ...

37 Wikipedia lists large scale numbers here. As only the 10^x with x being a multiple of 3 get their own names, you read 100,000,000,000,000,000 as 100×10^{18} , so ...

I am currently using the expression "~EUR100" to symbolically denote an approximate amount of one hundred euros. However, I'm not sure whether the symbol ~ followed by the ...
